

E-publications from all around the world

Borrow newspapers and magazines directly on your smartphone, tablet or computer, using PressReader or Mediearkivet.

PressReader

PressReader provides you with access to a large number of daily newspapers and magazines from all around the world.

Choose either PressReader at the library or PressReader at home.

What to do

PressReader at the library

You can use PressReader on the library's computers or when you connect your device to our wireless internet. No library card is required.

At the library, you can also read publications on your smartphone or tablet via the PressReader app, which can be downloaded from the App Store or Google Play. When connected to the library's wireless network, you can use the app to download up to five publications per day, which you can then read later, even when offline. Downloaded publications will be available for 72 hours, so you can read them when you've left the library.

PressReader at home

To use PressReader at home, you must have one of our library cards. Log in here to get started.

Mediearkivet

Mediearkivet is the biggest digital news archive in the Nordic region. It includes news from printed and digital newspapers, as well as from radio and TV, dating from the 1980s onwards.

Mediearkivet can be used when you are at the library.

Aside from news articles, Mediearkivet also features content from the websites of certain authorities and municipalities. In addition to Nordic sources, it also includes articles from around 100,000 international media outlets. The database is used by journalists, researchers, authors, students and many others. Mediearkivet's search function produces results that are neutrally presented, without any hidden algorithms.

Submit a request!

If you would like to read a newspaper or other publication that is not included in PressReader, inform the staff at the library and we will submit your request to PressReader.
